NINETEEN TWENTY-FIVE

OUR customers will note in this issue many new varieties that we have tried out in our gardens and found to be worthy acquisitions. It is our practice each year to obtain plantings of the newer creations in order that our many visitors may have the opportunity to view them while growing in the field and comparing them with their present favorites.

Many of you are familiar with and recognize the superior quality and low prices of Seabrook Nurseries Gladioli; the many unsolicited testimonials received during the past season attest to this fact. The chief reason of our success is that we do not force our stock for exhibition blooms or for the cut flower market. The flowering size bulbs that we send out are from young stock planted in the spring, which are allowed to attain their natural growth without fertilizer. Being grown in light sandy loam and given constant, intelligent cultivation, our bulbs turn out plump and clean, free of disease, and when replanted, give maximum results. Many visitors to our fields the past season have pronounced our plantings to be the finest and most carefully grown in New England and the choicest assortment of Gladioli that they have ever seen.

May we take this opportunity to extend our thanks to our many friends that have favored us with their patronage, and may we express the hope that our business dealings have been such as to warrant a continuance of their confidence.

Yours very truly,

LOUIS G. ROWE, Prop.,
Seabrook Nurseries.

CARE AND CULTURE OF GLADIOLI

BULBS should not be planted until corn planting time, as nothing is gained by planting before the ground is warm.

Select a sunny location away from roots of trees and shrubs. In localities where summer is extremely warm, a partially shaded situation is preferable. If your soil is heavy, plant four inches deep, and if light, six inches, having bulbs five or six inches apart.

Place bulbs in a well worked trench in staggard or zigzag rows,—
. . . . , and cover at first with about two inches of loam; when shoots begin to appear, work balance of loam into the trench. At all times keep the soil loose. As an aid to producing larger blooms work in fertilizer around the plants when about a foot or more in height and never at planting time. At the time flower spikes appear abundant watering is very beneficial.

Bulbs should be dug as soon as you note the leaves turning yellow. Cut stem off half an inch above bulb, spread them out to dry for two or three days in a sunny location and then place in an open shed or room for two weeks or more before storing them away in a cool, dry cellar. Keep them spread out and not over three inches deep. It is a benefit to give bulbs an occasional sunning or airing during the winter.
